V. Old Business

VI. New Business

- a. Soul Brew Coffee – tax credit application process: Bob Fox discussed the background of the business development and manufacturing plans for a new business called Soul Brew Coffee. The owners are making a significant investment in building out and developing the business in a historic property, and as such would be eligible to apply for historic preservation tax credits. The application process is quite involved. Bob Fox indicated that he would like for the KDA to consider assisting with the funding for the application process, and estimates the cost to be between $5,000 - $7,000. If the board is amenable, staff would proceed to the next step of drafting a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) to bring back to the board for review and approval. Board members had questions about the timeline of the application process and the awarding of the credits. Bob Fox advised that the application process takes approximately 6 months, and once awarded the tax credits to the business are spread out over multiple years. The board agreed the project has merit and asked staff to proceed with drafting an MOU for review. No action necessary on this item.

- b. Discussion of KDA website development & maintenance: The City of Kennesaw is updating/upgrading the city website. As a part of this project, it has been proposed that the website for the KDA (as well as the Kennesaw Downtown Development Authority) be combined with the city's website, rather than continuing to maintain a stand-alone website. The new page would be a part of the Economic Development section of the city website. The new page would be maintained in-house for content development and updates, which would reduce the need (and cost) for KDA to maintain an outside contract for ongoing website maintenance.

Miranda Taylor suggested that KDA consider keeping the current domain name, to prevent it being used by any other groups, but have the current domain automatically forward to the new page on the city website. Jay Brimberry suggested researching the rate to reserve the domain long-term, to take advantage of lower pricing before domain rates for .org domains increase in the near future. Miranda Taylor agreed to research the price and report back next month.

Bob Cook made a motion to approve combining the KDA website with the City of Kennesaw website. The motion was seconded by Matt Riedemann. Vote taken; motion passed unanimously, 6-0.

VII. ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT DIRECTOR'S COMMENTS – None
